

Joe Madsen

Superintendent

Joe's knowledge in the construction industry started early on spanning over 15 years. As a 3rd generation carpenter, he was immersed into the industry early. His formal education in construction started in high school, where he helped build a house for Habitat for Humanity. After graduating in 2004, Joe started working in construction full time. Joe has continued his education with certifications in multiple union upgrade courses. In 2014 Joe achieved journeyman status while working at the Minnesota Vikings Stadium

Joe started his role as a carpenter for TRI-Construction Inc., in late 2016 while working at the Target Center. In under a year Joe showcased his skill level to be of value and has advanced to his role as Field Superintendent.

"My focus is to be as proactive as possible, maximizing the productivity of our projects and employee's, setting them up for continued success"
